TITANIA AND BOTTOM;

Or, the New "Midsummer Night's Dream."

"Come, sit down upon this flowery bed,
While I thy amiable cheeks do coy,
And kiss thy fair, large ears, my gentle joy."
"Oh! how I love thee, how I dote on thee!"
—[Shakespeare.

How stupid and silly!
In the famed "Jersey Lily,"
Thus to let dog her steps that young donkey,
her "Neddy!"
'Tis the old case, that's plain—
Fair "Titania" again
Under "[illegible]n's" spell, and the "Bottom" is—[illegible]
